Home for the Holidays

Perry Como may have sang it best back in 1954:
“For the holidays, you can’t beat home, sweet, home.”

And today, children living in Angels Of Hope - supported homes know this feeling well. When asked to share one word for what home means to them, their answers were full of heart: beloved, warm, family, eternal, beautiful, happiness, wonderful, joy, gratitude, and love. Each word is a glimpse of the comfort and love they’ve found in their homes, all made possible because of your kindness this Christmas and throughout the year.

Home for Christmas

When the children talk about "home" they don't think of walls or roofs. They think of sharing jokes with friends, feeling safe, and knowing they are loved every single day. Because of your support, these simple things are theirs to hold onto. As you gather with your loved ones this holiday season, please remember the joy you've provided. May your own home be just as warm, full of love, and blessed with laughter.

A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

Recently, we asked some of the children at our AOH supported homes to find another word to replace “Sweet” in the popular phrase “Home, Sweet Home.” Their responses were truly heartwarming, and we hope you enjoy reading them.

Choosing one word was a challenge, since they had so many heartfelt feelings about their homes – love, safety, comfort, health, community, family. Your generous and continuous support of the Angels Of Hope program, especially during the holidays, made it difficult for the children to narrow their choice down to just one word.

Christmas is a magical time when the homes are decorated, prayers are offered, gifts are wrapped, and festive meals are prepared. Celebrations and special events are a cherished part of life in AOH-supported homes, made possible because of you.

Thank you for your ongoing support in giving vulnerable children a place to call home. May the Lord bless you and your family this holiday season.

To God be the glory!

In His service,
